APARTMENT TIP

A few Community reminders!

Please remember the speed limit is 5 MPH within the Community. We want to keep everyone safe!

All residents must STOP for the school bus. Do not go around the bus if they have the stop sign out, the arm is extended and lights are flashing. You must wait until they have checked to make sure all kids/parents have crossed the road safely.

COMMUNITY TIP

Up, up and away we go!

Life on the top floor can be fast, fun and may sometimes feel like you're off living in your own world. Yet, don't forget that you have neighbors right below you living their life too. Many times there will be the sound of the pitter-patter of little feet walking around, coming from their ceiling. Please be courteous and don't turn the light steps into a noisy herd of elephants. This is a reminder to tread softly. Place heavy rugs down to help buffer any noise that you may cause. Also, take off shoes and step into some cozy slippers when arriving home. Save heavy moving, jumping up and down, and skipping around for the daytime. In fact, it may just be best to reserve skipping as an outside activity.

While you have a right to go about your daily routine, do your best to reduce noise. To help drown out background noise in your apartment, use a box fan or low, relaxing music. Those shag rugs may just do the trick!

Seasonal Recipe

Taste of Fall: Baked Apples

Scoop out the core of four apples, keeping the bottoms intact. Mix 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/8 cup fresh breadcrumbs and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Place the mixture in the cored apples. Place stuffed apples in a baking dish with 1/8 apple cider and bake at 375 degrees for approximately 45 minutes. Enjoy!

The first Labor Day holiday was celebrated on September 5, 1882 in New York City.

Patio or Door Decor

For someone who loves the outdoors and has a personal paradise on their patio complete with comfortable furnishings, it is important to keep it that way. There are steps you can take to secure your patio furniture against theft. Attach the various pieces to each other. A would-be-thief will look rather silly and find it difficult to carry all the pieces off. A step you may want to consider is having indoor storage so your items can be locked up when not in use, and brought out when you want to enjoy them. If someone is stealing your patio furniture, please report to management, even the local police, so all can take appropriate action to stop the problem before it escalates into a larger issue.

It is worth the time and any investment you take for the security of your property. Likewise, remember to bring in patio furniture before storms or severe weather. Hopefully, you'll be able to enjoy your patio and all it has to offer anytime you want.

MY QUESTION

Roommate Bonding

There are plenty of opportunities to foster an enjoyable and healthy relationship with your roommate. Pick a weekly TV show to watch together or take a cooking class. You could also get ahead on the holiday rush by creating homemade cards with your roomie.

Take the time to show interest in what your roommate does and be supportive. Find out what your roommate is passionate about and then support it. If he or she participates in marathons, go watch and cheer them on during the final stretch. Whether it's a day spent volunteering or an afternoon picnicking in the park, show you care for your roommate by simply showing up. In the same spirit, invite your roommate to activities you're interested in. You'll both be surprised at how much these new experiences strengthen your relationship.

Even if you are both going a million different directions, take five minutes when you see someone you live with and ask them how they're doing, what's going on in life, or how their day went. By sharing and listening, you'll feel more at home and can create a healthy living environment and can quite possibly create a lasting friendship.
